Serving the State of Michigan, the Nation, and our local communities since 1857, the citizen-soldiers of the 126 Army Band provide music for all occasions. Based in Grand Rapids, Michigan, the band has earned praise from music critics and audiences alike.

The band has performed throughout the United States, London, Italy, Trinidad & Tobago, Australia and Latvia for all branches of the Armed Forces. This summer the band's 45 musicians bring their talents to Michigan's North Country. Audiences will enjoy America's favorite patriotic songs, stirring vocals, military marches and a musical salute to Michigan Veterans. Concert highlights include performances by the 126 Army Band Symphonic Band and Live-Fire, the bands classic rock group.

As the official military band of Michigan, unit members have enjoyed performing for many official State functions, such as the Governor's Inauguration, official visits of United States dignitaries including the President of the United States, and numerous foreign leaders. In 2007, the band was honored to perform the funeral and burial services for President Gerald R. Ford.

Commanded by CW2 Jon Montgomery, the band has a full concert band, marching band, ceremonial band, rock band, brass quintet, woodwind quintet and many smaller performing groups. In addition to its music mission, the band trains and maintains high proficiency in all military aspects of being a United States Soldier.
